

Business Analytics Expert – TM1

We are currently interested in Sr. TM1 Developers and TM1 Solution Architects in – Chicago, Denver, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Dallas that are open to at least 50% travel.

You're a prodigious consultant, you've acquired TM1 experience and you're passionate about the Business Analytics industry, and now you find yourself seeking a change.

The circumstance is you could probably go anywhere. We recognize that. So let's answer the question: Why Perficient?

First, we understand that our business succeeds because of our people. We are the most profitable publicly traded IT consulting firm in the U.S. – and for good reason. We occupy an attractive position in the crowded IT consulting services marketplace – the “sweet spot” between the big consulting firms and the smaller independent shops. To our clients we deliver more value faster than larger firms, and provide a broader range of solutions than smaller firms can. To our employees we deliver the opportunity to work on cutting-edge solutions for the country's biggest companies, in an environment where your name is known, your voice is heard and your contributions are genuinely valued.

Our great reputation and unsurpassed client list will help any consultant engage with company owners and imprint their name in the industry. You will be an integral piece of our organization and we are looking for you to help build up our name.

In addition, you will be constantly challenged because we gradually excel into new markets through competitive intelligence. We encourage all consultants to stay up to date on technology by giving training. We support you all the way and any way we can.

We hire strategically, thus we have set high standards of intelligence, communication and technical prowess. We want people who want to grow with us and help build up our team. We expect you to wear multiple hats and play multiple roles on client engagements, and perform technical development, project scoping, solution testing, Jr resource and client training, and project management.

If you want to make a difference and have your voice heard, if you want to work with the top professionals in the entire industry, if you value honesty, integrity and share a passion for Business Analytics then you need to join us. We work in a flexible and very close knit environment, and would love for you to join our family.

If you are interested, please reach out to me directly at katia.gorodinska@perficient.com or cell: 720-434-5246

